

Irish dances are named after the type of music they are danced to. Each type of music has a different rhythm.

They learned many dances* at Barrigan Irish Dance School and enjoyed them all, but each had their favorite.

Libby loved dancing the light jig,* and her steps were crisp and precise.

Teagan loved dancing the reel,* and her jump-two-threes* were as light as a feather.

Jump-two-three:
A high leaping movement.

Light Jig:
A very traditional Irish soft shoe dance set to music in 6/8 time.

Reel:
Danced to music in 4/4 time.
